If you were an Administration Mouthpiece, and you refused a place on the slush-fund committee, and went to the White House beaming and found that the President would have been just as willing for you to serve on the committee as not, wouldn't it, as F. Opper used to ask, "wouldn't it jar you?"

The fact that a bunch of Chinamen can command three display heads on the front page of metropolitan newspapers makes the poorest argument for pacifism that's been advanced yet. Little did T. ## MISSISSIPPI FLOODS TEAR GREAT LEVEES; HUNDREDS IN FLIGHT

Warning Issued to 2,500 Near Hickman, Ky., as River Rises.

GREATEST CREST YET SWEEPS DOWN RIVER

New Orleans Takes Steps to Battle Waters; Illinois Has Inundation.

Hickman, Ky., April 15 (By A. P.).—Government engineers tonight issued a warning to 2,500 residents of Lake county to be ready to move out on a moment's notice. Water already in sight and continued rains threatened the Hickman and Lake county government levee for 1½ miles more seriously than any other point along the course of the Mississippi, engineers said.

A government river fleet was stationed at Hickman and a call for 500 laborers to aid in sandbagging the levee was sent out. It is hoped to have most of the workmen on hand tomorrow morning, as engineers believed the time element was among the most important in the situation.

Free From Danger.
Memphis, Tenn., April 15 (By A. P.).—Through driving rain tonight levee guards along Arkansas streams and levee engineers in the Hickman (Ky.) and Memphis districts of the Mississippi river patrolled the great dikes or fought the inrushing waters as the greatest flood in history moved down the drainage arteries.

Thousands of acres of lowlands in the basins of the Arkansas, White and St. Francis rivers were under water in Arkansas. Hundreds of inhabitants were refugees in more elevated portions of the valleys, and other hundreds watched the turbulent tides swirling in or about their homes.

Close Guard Kept.
From Cottonwood Point, 110 miles north of Memphis, to the mouth of the White, 50 miles south of Helena, the government levees of the Mississippi were reported in prime condition. But their keepers mustered in every man and all machinery available to guard them against the ever-increasing weight of water that has been leaning heavily upon them for four weeks.

The Arkansas river reached 36.1 feet at Fort Smith, the highest stage in 94 years. Motor traffic through the river valleys, where rain has been falling for days, is almost at a standstill, and train service has been interrupted at many points.

The White river levee at Jacksonport went out early today, and a break near Clarendon was feared.

UNIDENTIFIED BOY KILLED WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO

Young Driver Is Freed for His Appearance at Coroner's Inquest Today.

FRACTURED SKULL FATAL

An unidentified boy is dead as the result of an automobile accident last night at Thirteenth and One-half street and Ohio avenue northwest.

The boy, believed to be about 15 years old, died at Emergency hospital at 10:30 o'clock last night from a fractured skull. The accident occurred shortly after 10 o'clock.

Lawrence J. Banks, 24 years old, of 935 K street northwest, was driver of the automobile which struck the boy. After knocking the boy down Banks placed the unconscious youth in his automobile and sped to Emergency hospital. The boy died before surgeons could operate. Banks gave himself up to police at the hospital.

In an effort to learn the identity of the boy, police last night sent the following description to all precincts: "A boy, about 15 years old, 5 feet 6 inches tall, weighing about 125 pounds and wearing a red-striped sweater, light-colored knickers and stockings and tan shoes."

Banks was ordered released in the custody of officials of the Potomac Electric Power Co., his employers, by Coroner J. Ramsey Nevitt, to appear this morning at 11:30 o'clock at an inquest which will be held at the District morgue.

Public Whist Playing For Prize Is Banned

Lowell, Mass., April 15 (By A. P.).—Whist playing for prizes at public gatherings was placed under police ban in Lowell today.

As a result of a recent ruling of State Attorney General Reading against all lotteries and raffles, Superintendent of Police Downey issued an order against public whist games at which prizes are offered.

Air Mail Pilot Killed By a Fall in Idaho

Boise, Idaho, April 15 (By A. P.).—William Sanborn, air mail pilot, was killed late today, when his plane fell, 7 miles north of King hill. Ranch hands, who saw the machine fall, in Sanborn was dead in the cockpit when they reached it. They expressed the belief the accident occurred when Sanborn failed in an attempt to buck a heavy headwind.

Gay, Glad Easter Sunshine To End Grim Lenten Gloom

Smiling Skies and Gentle Spring Zephyrs to Vie With Brilliance of Holiday Finery, Weather Man Promises Fashion Paraders.

When Washington sheds tomorrow the sackcloth and ashes it figuratively has worn through a long Lent the elements will do the same, and whatever the brilliance of the Capital's annual Easter parade of finery it will be matched by brightly smiling skies and soft and happy spring zephyrs.

There will be tomorrow, the weather bureau forecasts, no hint of the sorrowing skies which will mark the last day of Lent today. Not that Washington is to be favored tomorrow with a special brand of weather, for fair weather is promised for almost the entire country, with showers not due until afternoon in the places they are forecast to fall. Showers are probable at any hour today.

If the opinions of the purveyors of flowers and hats stand, to say nothing of silk stockings and dresses—if the opinions of these are of any value whatever, the skies will need to be bright to match the parade of beauty and finery tomorrow. The Easter parade, which has become a national ritual observed on Sixteenth street and Four and a-half street, on Fifth avenue and on Main street, is due to begin with church going in the morning and last throughout the day.

President and Mrs. Coolidge will be among the thousands attending morning church service, but whether they will take part in the promenade is doubtful. There will be, however, members of the cabinet, the judiciary, of the House and Senate, of the diplomatic corps, and of the subcommittee of society, debt clerk and stenographer, among the thousands who will be, with varying success, to assemble unconcerned along the city's broad streets.

Everything is in readiness for the annual Easter Monday egg rolling. The White House grounds will be opened to receive egg-laden children under the same rules which have been in effect in the past. Undoubtedly, several smart urchins will earn some change escorting grown-ups through the gates, for only adults accompanying children may get in. A part of the lawn will be roped off because of the repelling being done.

The pedestrian will be king within the confines of the National Zoological park Monday, a special regulation prohibiting vehicles with the park confines have been promulgated yesterday. Officials did not want an accident of the thousands of children expected there to roll eggs to mar the day.

Other thousands will gather at the Washington monument, and vehicles will be prohibited from the roads on the north side of it.

SOVIET AND SWISS END 4-YEAR DISPUTE IN VOROVSKY DEATH

Geneva Offers Regrets for Killing of Envoy From Moscow.

AGREEMENT SIGNED IN GERMAN CAPITAL

Russia Has Refused to Attend Any League Meetings as Result of Shooting.

Moscow, Russia, April 15 (By A. P.).—The Soviet foreign office tonight announced the signing of an agreement today at Berlin adjusting the long-standing controversy between Soviet Russia and Switzerland over the assassination of Vasily Vorovsky, Soviet representative at the Lausanne conference in 1923.

The announcement said that Switzerland had expressed regret for the assassination of Vorovsky by Maurice Conrad, a Swiss engineer, who later was acquitted, and for the wounding of Hermann Ahrens, Russian press representative and companion of Vorovsky at the time of the assassination.

The agreement, the foreign office announcement added, provided for monetary compensation of the family of the slain Soviet representative.

Ever since the assassination of Vasily Vorovsky on Swiss soil in 1923 and the subsequent acquittal by a Swiss jury of Maurice Conrad, his slayer, the Soviet government has refused to accept invitations from the League of Nations to attend league conferences of any kind held in Switzerland.

Vorovsky and two companions, including Ahrens, were shot by Conrad and an accomplice while in a restaurant in Lausanne on May 10, 1923, during the Lausanne conference. The assassination caused a profound impression in official circles in Moscow, which was greatly heightened when Conrad was acquitted after he had made the plea that he had just provoked for his act through the fact that his uncle and several members of his family had been killed by the bolsheviks.

Efforts were made by the Soviet government to show that the Swiss had not supplied sufficient protection and that the Soviet envoy had been subjected to discourtesy, a courier from Moscow being held up with dispatches for him and other obstructions being placed in his way.

After Conrad's acquittal, Switzerland was placed permanently on the black list by the Soviet government. Previous efforts to patch up the differences between the two governments came to naught, but the matter has been more or less in process of negotiation for some time.

Russia is not a member of the League of Nations, but, like the United States, has been invited to various conferences of the league.

12½ Cents Is Gasoline Price in California

Los Angeles, Calif., April 15 (By A. P.).—Gasoline was slashed to 12½ cents a gallon today by the Pan American Petroleum Co. in the latest price cut of the retail gasoline war in Los Angeles and southern California.

It was the third time the Pan American Co. had undercut its competitors. The reduction today was 2 cents a gallon.

British Heir Just Told Of Installment Buying

Woolwich, England, April 15 (By A. P.).—The Prince of Wales has just learned the meaning of the "hire-purchase system," as installment buying is called here. He seems favorably impressed with it.

Making one of his unexpected East End jaunts, he visited the royal arsenal cooperative exhibition at Woolwich dockyard, where he showed keen interest in a machine which washes clothes and makes mince-meat, sausages and ice cream, all by electricity.

"But is this within the reach of a poor man's pocket?" he asked, and then was told the machine was sold on the hire-purchase system.

"What's that?" he inquired. Some one explained, and the prince nodded approvingly.

PARACHUTE SAVES FLIER AS PLANE FALLS IN RIVER

Lieut. S. A. McClellan Has to Push Away Crumpled Wing Before Jumping.

DIVED FROM 6,000 FEET

Lieut. Stephen A. McClellan, a marine corps reserve officer living at 822 Eighteenth street, yesterday had the presence of mind to leap and open his parachute as the plane he was piloting in a test flight for the Eberhardt Airplane Manufacturing Corporation, of Buffalo, crumpled beneath him at an altitude of 6,000 feet. He landed unhurt in the Potomac river near Hains Point.

Lieut. McClellan, 25 years old, who is employed as an experimental pilot in the bureau of standards, was engaged a few days ago by Cleburne Eberhardt, manufacturer of the plane, to demonstrate the ship before naval officials previous to submitting it to the test board of the Navy Department for inspection and trial in competition with the Boeing and Curtiss planes, also being tested at the naval air station.

At 11 o'clock yesterday morning Lieut. McClellan took off on the demonstration flight. Attaining an altitude of 6,000 feet, he went into a vertical dive, with the motor racing at full speed. Just exactly what happened first is not known, even to McClellan himself. In describing the fall, Lieut. McClellan said:

"It just went to pieces on me. I felt something go. Then something else. I guess it was a wing came back at me, covering the cockpit. I stood up and pushed on the obstruction with all my strength and it gave way. Then I hopped over the side. After turning over twice I found the parachute cord and gave it a yank. The rest was easy, except getting wet. Goosh, that water is cold."

LONG QUAKE ROCKS CALIFORNIA CITIES

Los Angeles, Santa Monica and Long Beach Feel a 20-Second Temblor.

Los Angeles, Calif., April 15 (By A. P.).—An earthquake, light in force but of unusually long duration, shook Los Angeles and suburbs at about 6:48 o'clock tonight.

Although the tremor was felt by few persons in the business district of Los Angeles, it seemed more pronounced to the southwest and gave houses and buildings at Santa Monica and Sawtelle a distinct shaking, rattling windows and setting chandeliers swinging.

The earthquake lasted twenty seconds, although some reported it to be in two shocks with a second's intermission.

At Long Beach the tremor was fairly pronounced, rattling doors and shaking windows. The quake was extremely light at Avalon, on Santa Catalina island. So far as is known there was no damage at any point.

Experts Have Trouble Razing German Forts

Berlin, April 15 (A. P.).—Difficulties have been the efforts of military experts of the allied countries to complete the work of destroying the German fortifications in accordance with the treaty of Versailles. The experts took up this function when the Inter-Allied Military Control commission ceased to function January 31.

It is reported that the allied ambassadors in Berlin have protested, with the result that a settlement of the points at issue is said to be in prospect.

African Lion Hunter Comes Back to Marry

New York, April 15 (By A. P.).—Joseph Klein, African explorer, returned today on the Conte Biancamano from a hunting trip in the jungle to marry Miss Florence Tintera, of Tapan, N. Y. Following their marriage they will return to the Mufumboro mountains, Belgian Congo, the land of gorillas.

Klein has participated in the killing of 620 lions, but declared he has persistently refused to shoot gorillas, because they are "too human." He has studied ape life for more than twelve years.

SOUTH CHINA PARTY SPLIT; NEW CIVIL WAR FORECAST; CHEN'S REPLY DEFIES U. S.

Chiang's Moderates to Set Up Government of Own, Is Belief.

ARREST OF RADICALS AT HANKOW SOUGHT

Communist Leaders Are Impeached at Meeting in Nanking.

Shanghai, China, April 15 (By A. P.).—The moderates within the Cantonese regime today definitely broke with the communistic element that has been controlling the civil government at Hankow.

The break, coming in the midst of a steady drive by the northerners, along the Yangtze river to regain the territory lost to the Cantonese armies in the past few weeks, now presents the possibility of civil war within civil war to add to the already tangled skein of China's destiny.

With the long-threatened split within the ranks of the Cantonese now a reality, the new alignment of Cantonese leaders overshadowed the reply of Eugene Chen, Cantonese foreign minister at Hankow, the demands of the powers for an apology and reparation for the Nanking disorders of March 24.

Chen's reply, delivered to the consul general of the United States, Great Britain, France, Japan and Italy last night, suggesting the creation of an international commission to settle responsibility for the Nanking outrages, presents a problem of whether Hankow, in view of the moderates' break with the leaders there, can be considered as authoritatively representing the Cantonese government.

Radical Leaders Impeached.
Today's split between the moderates and radicals was made at a meeting of leading figures of the Kuomintang (Cantonese political party) at Nanking, called by the moderate leader, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, Cantonese generalissimo, and came with dramatic suddenness. Resolutions of impeachment against almost a score of radical leaders of the Cantonese government at Hankow were adopted almost immediately.

Word of the impeachment resolutions, received through Geo. Tai-Chi, Cantonese commissioner for foreign affairs at Shanghai, indicated that Gen. Chiang and his supporters would establish a new government at Nanking.

The resolutions demanded that certain radical leaders be arrested as "disturbers of the public order in China." Among those mentioned by name were Michael Borodin, the Russian who has been acting as adviser to Cantonese government; George Hsu Chen, minister of justice; Chen Tu-Hsiu, leader of the Chinese communist party; Tung Ping-Shan, minister of agriculture; Teng Yen-Tai, notorious agitator, and fifteen others less known.

Chen Is Not Mentioned.
Foreign Minister Chen was not mentioned in the resolutions, speakers at the conference asserting that he was not actually communist, but was merely a tool used by Borodin and the other radical leaders.

The quickness with which the impeachment resolutions were adopted caused surprise because it had been reported that there were plans to delay the meeting to await the arrival of more delegates from Hankow. The conference, however, was said to have been attended by a majority of the central control committee of the Kuomintang. Chinese sources also declaring that (CONTINUED ON PAGE 2, COLUMN 5.)

U. S. Schoolbooks Used To Stir Chaos in China

New York, April 15 (By A. P.).—American school books written in an anti-British tone played an important part in the efforts of communists to bring about the present chaos in China, the Earl of Denbigh, of London, said today.

The books, he said, were used in propaganda work carried on among the more illiterate Chinese by the communists, who point to the unfriendly note in the books as the attitude of the American people toward Great Britain. He said the bolsheviks could not hurt England by force, but could strike at British foreign trade by creating discontent and strife among the peoples of other lands.

Earl and Lady Denbigh, formerly Miss Kathleen Emmet, of New York, arrived today from Boston. They are en route to Washington, where they will be guests of Sir Esme Howard, the British Ambassador.

U. S. DESTROYER SHELLS TROOPS ALONG YANGTZE

The Ford, Struck Many Times, Silences Fire; Protects Standard Oil Craft.

BRITISH CRUISER HELPS

(By the Associated Press.)
The destroyer John D. Ford yesterday fired upon Chinese northern troops, using her 4-inch guns, loaded with shrapnel shells and silencing the fire which the Chinese had directed upon the Standard Oil ship Melan.

Official reports on the incident reaching the Navy Department said the northern troops were entrenched abreast the Ford in the Yangtze river opposite Nanking and had been firing upon the oil ship and exchanging shots with Chinese nationalist troops on the Nanking side of the river.

The Ford at first returned the fire with its machine guns, the report said, and the British cruiser Emerald, anchored alongside, also turned its machine guns upon the Chinese. The Chinese ceased firing at the Melan and concentrated upon the Ford, which was hit in many places but suffered no casualties to its crew or material damage to itself.

The action, the second in which the British cruiser Emerald has joined with American destroyers in bombarding Chinese, was reported by Admiral Williams, commanding American forces in China, who forwarded a dispatch from Rear Admiral Hough, commanding the Yangtze patrol.

Admiral Hough said Cantonese forces on the Nanking side of the river had been exchanging fire with the northern troops, using field guns and rifles. ## ARTS GROUP HEARS GRAMTUN PROPOSAL ON COURT BUILDING

Commission Considers Sixth and L Streets as Police Construction Site.

JUDICIARY AREA PARK FEATURES TO BE KEPT

Suggestion Provides That Addition Take Up Frontage on Block to East.

Preservation of park features of Judiciary square against further building in that area was strongly indicated yesterday when the commission of fine arts announced serious consideration for the suggestion of representative of Louis Gramton, of Michigan, that additional space for the proposed police court building be provided east of and adjacent to the present building at Sixth and D streets. The suggestion provides further that additional construction take up the entire frontage of the block to the east.

When the last Congress adjourned it had before it the question of appropriating funds for a police court building at the intersection of Fourth and E streets, but investigation made it evident that the police court would require a much larger structure than could be built conveniently at that location, which would not allow for future expansion of the court's activities. The site was not accepted.

First tentative plans and drawings for the new internal revenue building to be built between Tenth, Twelfth, B and C streets were submitted to the commission at its closing session yesterday by Undersecretary of the Treasury Mills, but no action was taken on the suggestion. The commission is in connection with the commission's study for buildings in the entire Federal triangle between Tenth, B and C streets and Pennsylvania avenue.

Building of Classic Design.
Sketches provide for a classic building, approximately 350 feet square, with six stories, roof balustrade similar to the White House, colonnade front, and containing in height to the National museum nearby.

Commissioners were also in conference with David Lynn, Capitol architect, relative to development of Union Station plaza north of the Capitol. Tentative plans provide for arranging the plaza with garden treatment between the buildings, after present temporary government structures and private dwellings are removed.

A plan of the National Capitol park and planning commission for a parkway south of St. Elizabeths hospital and in the vicinity of Fort Greble, known as Shepherd parkway, was approved. This is part of the boulevard drive connecting the civil war forts around the city.

known for her knack of making up per-

Frankly I am glad that our coffee doesn't have to be blended to suit each person's taste. When originally blending Wil-to perfect a blend which would please the majority of the people.

Wilkins Coffee will never please all people nor will any other brand. There are always some people who prefer to buy according to price, rather than according to taste, and therefore, there are always people who will insist on paying 50c a people who will try to get coffee for 20c a pound.

These people we cannot sell.

The fact that Wilkins Coffee conclusively to most folks that it is the ideal blend.

coat and wrapped the burning boy in it.
Falling to extinguish the flames, Hart then tore the clothing from the boy and carried him to the car of a motorist.

Bernard Hart, 5-year-old son of Mrs.
Hart, says that he and the Dietz boy were standing near a small bonfire that had been started by older boys. Russell Dietz was wearing cowboy trousers and in stamping out a piece of paper at the edge of the fire the fringe on the trousers caught fire from the flames.

At the hospital the burned boy said that while he and the Hart boy were standing at the edge of the fire, after lighting a stick in the fire, he thrust it at him and ignited his trousers. The Hart boy, however, said he saw nothing of this older boy.

tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National cemetery were taken by the commission when, after inspection as speedily as possible.

The commission has no designs for the work but suggested that the agencies cooperating for completion of the monument should proceed even though no money is available. A joint resolution of Congress, passed last year, authorized procurement of competitive designs by Secretary of War Davis, these to be approved by the fine arts, Arlington amphitheater and American battle monuments commissions.

Tomb of Unknown Unfinished.
The body of the Unknown Soldier was buried November 11, 1921, in the pedestal of a monument to be completed later.

Designed by Thomas Hastings, architect of the amphitheater, who planned a large monument. This design was approved by the commission of fine arts, but met with objection in official circles on the ground that it detracted from the amphitheater.

Several modifications were submitted, but no appropriation has been made to cover cost of completion, $60,- 000 for this purpose. The second deficiency bill, which failed to pass the last Congress.

Plans for two swimming pools in Mc-Kilroy Memorial Trust grounds were approved and garden treatment for the lower retaining wall of Meridian park facing W. street, and appropriate entrance at Fifteenth and W. streets were also considered. Plans for completion of the lower garden including a series of cascades, a reflecting pool, and a statue to President James Buchanan have already been approved. The cost of $100,000 will be expended towards completion of the lower gardens.

The commissioners inspected the Virginia approach to Arlington Memorial park, and in connection with a plan for development of Greater Arlington. They also visited the site of the proposed national arboretum at Mount Hamilton. A request of the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. for a small travelling space along Washington avenue, near the intersection of Fourth street for additional tracking, was referred to the commission by the Treasury Department and will be taken under consideration.

PRINCE YI OF KOREA TO VISIT IN SUMMER

Wife and Sister Will Accompany Son of the Late Emperor.

Prince Yi, of Korea, son of the late Emperor of Korea, is planning to visit the United States in the late summer on his return to Japan from a trip to Europe. It was learned yesterday.
He will be accompanied by Princess Yi, who before her marriage was Princess Masako, of Japan, daughter of Prince Nashimoto, and by Princess Tokuko, sister of the prince.

Plans for a trip to Europe and the United States had been made two years ago, but were first prevented by the death of the former Emperor Yi Wang of Korea, while the recent fatal illness of Emperor Yoshihito of Japan forced postponement of the trip, which had been set for early this year. The prince and his party now are expected to leave Japan in June, going first to England.

The late Emperor of Korea was the last ruler of that country, which was annexed by Japan during his reign.
Prince Yi, who was in direct line to the succession, has been accepted by the Japanese imperial family as one of them, and now resides in Tokyo, where he is prominent in affairs of the court.
The prince is 29 years old and has been educated in Japanese schools. He is an honor graduate of the Japanese military academy and holds the rank of captain in the Japanese army. He is known to speak Japanese more fluently than his native tongue.

Man Gets Divorce and Children.
Mrs. C. Harper was awarded an interlocutory decree for absolute divorce yesterday by Justice Siddons in equity court against Mrs. Rose K. Harper, whom he married June 4, 1917. He also was awarded the custody of two minor children. Attorney Henry M. Fowler appeared for Harper.

TROUBLES OF WRITERS MORE TOLD BY WOMEN

"Hymn to Washington" Favored for Capital Song
as Congress Ends.

BREAKFAST IS TODAY

Discussion of marketing problems in writing, and technique in art and literature, marked the closing session of the fourth authors' congress of the League of American Pen Women yesterday afternoon in the Mayflower hotel.

In the last moments of the congress resolutions were adopted commending Agnes M. Newman's "A Hymn to Washington" as an official song for the capital and favoring payment for manuscripts within 30 days of acceptance by the publisher.

Marie Moore Forrest sketched the history of penmanship at the final session, and J. Lewis Mowbray spoke briefly on the short story. Other speakers were Miss Mavis McIntosh, Mrs. William Walt Smith, William C. Penning, Florence L. Stine, Isabel Likens Gates, Mrs.
Miriam Dingley, Leonard Hall, Lella
Mechlin, Rule Tolman, Miss Juliet Simpson and Edna M. Colman, chairman of the congress.

Aids to literary work were discussed at the morning session by Mrs. Scottie McKenzie Prater, of Alabama. Mrs. Prater who spoke was Mrs. Louise Hogan, Mrs. May Horingston, Mrs. Grace Gogdard and Florence Lindstrom Jepson.
Mrs. William C. Penning, president of the Washington branch of the league, and her district executive board, were hostesses to the visiting members last night. The visiting symposium, Mrs.
Zara Macbeth Jones and Blanche Smith Ferguson.

The annual "authors' breakfast" will be held at 1:30 o'clock this morning in the Mayflower ballroom, and a joint meeting with the Daughters of the American Revolution will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in Memorial Continental hall. Secretary of the Navy Curtis D.
Wilbur and Maj. Gen. Charles P. Sumner, chief of staff of the army, will be among the honor guests at the breakfast.

Mrs. Grace Thompson Seton, national president of the league, will dedicate a red oak tree in the park at the foot of Thirty-fifth and L streets northwest, to the memory of Mrs. E.
D. N. Southworth, one of the early writers of Washington, at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow. Guests will be Col.
U. S. Grant 3d, C. Melvin Sharpe and other members of the league. They will conduct their memorial planting ceremony.

Ford Trial to Delay
Reed's "Slush" Inquiry

Further activities of the Senate "slush fund" committee must wait on the conclusion of the Ford trial in Detroit, which may take weeks, Senator Reed, of Missouri, chairman of the committee, declared yesterday on his return to Washington from Detroit, where he has been engaged in the trial as Ford's counsel. Senator Reed said he will be unable to take any personal part in committee proceedings until the trial is ended.

The senator said he expected to confer with Senator King, of Utah, before his return to Detroit tomorrow afternoon, but did not say when he would confer yesterday with Jerry C. South, the committee's representative, in connection with the trial in Detroit.

The committee chairman criticized Senator Keyes for stopping the committee's funds, but refused to accept appointment on the committee.
Unless Vice President Dawes revives the committee through a new appointment, it is likely to lie dormant for some time.

Canadian Officials Seek Legation Site

Representatives of the Canadian legation are negotiating for the purchase of the home of Mrs. Akseel Wilson, 1745 Massachusetts avenue, it was learned yesterday. The deal, it is understood, is by no means closed, but the negotiations have reached a point where representatives of the legation have gone to New York to deal with representatives of the property owners.
The legation since its establishment has occupied temporary quarters at 1757 N street northwest. More than 40 available places have been considered. Serious consideration, it is understood, has been given to the home of Herbert Wadsworth on Massachusetts avenue, near Dupont circle, and to the Patterson house which is now being used as a temporary White House.

Coolidge's Pet Dog Gets "Kicked Around"

(By the Associated Press.)
Somebody kicked President Coolidge's pet dog, Rob Roy, around yesterday, but presidential intervention was promptly effected. The dog, owned by Rob Roy, let out a couple of meaning barks while wandering among the newspaper men at their regular conference with Mr. Coolidge.

"Here, what's the matter," the President quickly inquired with a smile.
"Are they stepping on your toes?" Rob Roy rushed to the executive's chair, and throwing his forepaw up against the president sought further sympathy. He got a pat on the head and a promise that further attacks would be stopped.

Paper Firm's Appeal Overruled.
The motion of the District of Columbia Paper Manufacturing Co., 3255 K street northwest, for a new trial of the case where it was assessed $2,000 damages in favor of Stanley Folger, a minor, for personal injuries, was overruled yesterday by Justice Siddons in equity court.
Folger's hand was crushed in the paper mill machinery on August 23, 1923, he charged. Attorney Ralph B. Fleharty appeared for him.

Dog Bites Girl at Play.
While playing in front of 512 C street yesterday afternoon, Dorothy E.
Smith, 8 years old, of 618 Pennsylvania avenue southeast, was bitten on the left leg by a stray dog. The girl was treated at Providence hospital.

RUMOR OF SPILT IN CABINET ON POLICY IN CHINA IS DENIED

damage done, the nationalist government is prepared to make good all damage done to the American consulate at Nanking on the ground that whether or not such damage was caused by northern rebels or others, as stated in the preliminary statement issued by the nationalist government on March 31, the fact remains that the American consulate on Chinese territory has been violated.

Guilt Must Be Proven.
"Three. As regards reparation for personal injuries to American nationals and other material damage done, the nationalist government is prepared to make all reasonable and necessary reparation, except in case where it can be definitely proven that the same have been caused by the British-American naval bombardment at Nanking on March 24 or by northern rebels and agents provocateurs.

"Four. The demand for the adequate punishment of the persons and the troops responsible for the murders, the personal injuries and indignities and material damage done as also of all persons found to be implicated," he said, "is a demand which is not only justified, but also a demand which is sacredly assumed by the nationalist forces who captured Nanking.

"His guilt is contradicted in the preliminary statement issued on March 31, a rigid government inquiry is being conducted in order to ascertain the exact facts of the case, including verification of the outstanding facts reported to the military council by Gen.
Cheng Chien, who took Nanking, that his forces found and captured approximately 30,000 northern soldiers with rifles, besides thousands of camp followers, inside the city of Nanking itself. Cheng Chien also reported that a number of those implicated have been executed. The nationalist government proposes that the question of punishment should await the findings of either the government inquiry now in progress or of an international commission of inquiry to be constituted by the national government and the United States government. As the laws of nations prohibit the bombardment of a city
on the territory of a friendly state, the nationalist government proposes that the question of punishment should also investigate the circumstances of the bombardment of the unfortified city of Nanking by the naval forces of the United States government on March 24 last.

Apology to Wait on Inquiry.
"Five. The demands for an apology in writing by the commander in chief of the nationalist army, including an expressed written undertaking to refrain on all forms of planned or unplanned aggression against foreign lives and property, is so far as an apology is concerned, justifiable. On the other hand, the nationalist government proposes that the question of punishment should await the findings of either the government inquiry now in progress or of an international commission of inquiry to be constituted by the national government and the United States government. As the laws of nations prohibit the bombardment of a city
on the territory of a friendly state,
the nationalist government proposes
that the question of punishment should
also investigate the circumstances of
the bombardment of the unfortified
city of Nanking by the naval forces of the United States government on March 24 last.

"Six. The nationalist government, as a responsible governing body, naturally has a duty to see that there is no use of violence and aggression against foreign lives and property. Indeed, the protection of foreign lives and property has been repeatedly declared to be the settled policy of the nationalist government. The proper authorities of the national government have been directed to see that no use of violence is made against foreign lives and property.
The nationalist government proposes
that the question of punishment should await the findings of either the government inquiry now in progress or of an international commission of inquiry to be constituted by the national government and the United States government. As the laws of nations
prohibit the bombardment of a city
on the territory of a friendly state,
the nationalist government proposes
that the question of punishment should
also investigate the circumstances of
the bombardment of the unfortified
city of Nanking by the naval forces of the United States government on March 24 last.

"Seven. The nationalist government, however, would be lacking in candor if they should fail to regard and emphasize the fact that the nationalist government is not only a government for the protection of American and other foreign lives and property in China, but also a government for the protection of the lives and property of the Chinese people. The nationalist government proposes that the question of punishment should await the findings of either the government inquiry now in progress or of an international commission of inquiry to be constituted by the national government and the United States government. As the laws of nations prohibit the bombardment of a city on the territory of a friendly state, the nationalist government proposes that the question of punishment should also investigate the circumstances of the bombardment of the unfortified city of Nanking by the naval forces of the United States government on March 24 last.

"Eight. The nationalist government, accordingly, are prepared and ready to appoint delegates to negotiate with the nationalist government to negotiate

Report on Accia Insurance. Insurance totaling $9,744,000 was written in March by the Accia Mutual Life Association. The month was known as Builders' month, and was dedicated to William Montgomery, president of the association, who has just completed one-third of a century in the service of the organization.

During the month there were 3,163 applications for insurance, the average amount of each application being $3,079. The average production per agent totaled $32,064.

Included on the honor roll for Builders' month are the names of 126 agents, who wrote $33,000 or more insurance. Many of them wrote more than this, six of them passing the $100,000 mark, while the highest amount written by any agent was $808,000, secured by the Chicago branch of the company.

The Washington office, which is the home office of the association, ranked third among the agencies, writing a total of $480,000 of life insurance, with the highest amount written by a local agent reaching $106,000, while the average production per agent was $53,333.

The ice industry in volume of business in the manufactured ice industry in recent years has been striking. According to figures compiled by the National Association of Ice Industries, their output in 1914 was approximately 28,000,000 tons, and in 1926 49,700,000 tons. This is an average increase of 6.8 per cent.

The ice industry has been benefited rather than hurt by the competition of the new household mechanical refrigerators, according to a review by G. M. P. Murphy & Co., investment bankers. "The new competition has spurred the older industry to increase its operating efficiency and seek new markets. More intensive study revealed new applications and defined more clearly the limits of usefulness."

Bankers Will Meet May 2-5. The spring meeting of the executive council of the American Bankers association will be held on May 2 to 5 at Hot Springs, Ark. ual sessions, and reports will be heard covering the activities of banking, while suggested policies found necessary will be adopted. In addition to the 140 members making up the council the national officers and heads of various divisions are also members. Harry V. Hayden, president of the Farmers & Mechanics National Bank, is a member of the executive council and will attend the meeting in May, as will George O. Watson, president of Liberty National Bank, who is a member of the public relations committee of the association. The Washington members will make the trip on a special train which will leave New York on April 29, reaching Hot Springs without stopover on May 1.

"FALSE LOVE AND TRUE"

By CAROLINE BEECHER

SYNOPSIS.

Bob Livingston's maiden aunt, Alice, who brought her up so carefully, died on her eightieth birthday, the day of her coming-out party. Her aunt had lived well on an annuity, but there is only $100 left for Bob. She goes to New York, and, inexperienced in business, finally gets work at $15 a week, then $20, answering the phone for Mr. Marvin, in what she thinks is a broker's office. A $20 hotel bill sends her to a $10 furnished room. After two chance meetings, the lonely girl accepts the invitation of Bob Thornton, artist, about 30 years old, to dine and dance. George Allison, a home town boy, calls and suffers by comparison with the lively Bob. Edward Clark, associate of Marvin, tries to make dinner engagements, but instinctively she dislikes him. Bob goes to the Ritz with Bob and meets Matt Waters, and he makes an engagement with her.

Bob hugs and kisses her when they part and, despite herself, she thrills to his caresses. Marvin's violent love-making angers her, and she quits her job. She takes a cheaper room. With Bob in mind, she refuses when Matt asks her to marry him, but they are still good friends. She reads of Marvin's arrest as a bootlegger. Meeting Clark by accident, she reluctantly has lunch with him, but she is hungry and has only $10 left. She plays the piano at a movie house and works evenings. When Bob next sees her he talks of the beauty of the society girl whose portrait he is painting. At a party at the apartment of Irene Copeland, Rosebush's stenographer, there is drinking and petting. She feels that Harry Jessup pays Irene's bills. George Monroe takes her home in a taxi and makes love. She tells Bob she is so much in love. Matt calls. Spoken girl she met at Irene's party. Peg is a good cook and they live cheaper.

Bob sends roses on Bob's nineteenth birthday, but breaks a dinner engagement. Peg gets up a party with flasks. A roomer objects to the noise, and calls the police station. Bob slips out unnoticed, and after the party is broken up by a policeman. Tells Peg she is going back to her old rooming house. Irene tells Bob she is so much in love. Matt calls. Spoken girl she met at Irene's party. Peg is a good cook and they live cheaper.

It was late; there were few people in the restaurant. Suddenly Irene came in and made her way to us. She gave us a scathing look.

"Nice friends I've got!" she sneered.

"He'd stay single if he didn't! I've been to some of the swell places, Bob. Those smart night clubs. And believe me, those swell girls have petting parties just as much as we do. You're too old-fashioned, Bob. You'll have to get over some of your notions. This is New York, not a little country town. George Brown was asking for you the other night. Said he'd get a friend of his and the four of us would go somewhere and dance. You'll go, won't you, Bob?"

Peg looked at me wistfully. Suddenly that feeling that nothing mattered came over me. That no one cared for me or cared what I did. Surely I could dance in a public place without allowing any liberties.

"Yes, I'll go," I said. "But Peg, I've nothing to wear except this blue dress."

"I'm in the same boat. I've nothing but a plain dark dress. But who cares? We'll have a good time just the same, and a dandy supper. George knows how to order a meal. I'll tell the world."

It had been a long time since I had been anywhere, and I was quite excited at the prospect of dancing again. As I have said I liked Peg. I knew she was a good girl—common though she was. And I'd tell George Brown that there would be no intimacies of any sort.

Bob had deserted me—not yet had I seen you again, Bob. I never understood why you cut us so cold. I've meant to hunt you up, but Peg said you had shook her crowd. I don't go where I'm not wanted. Too many girls willing to be nice to me. He squeezed my arm.

I was confronted with a sharp memory of the party from which I had fled to the arena. I saw the room where we had danced so wildly; myself in George Brown's arms; I saw the policeman going into the house; myself shivering with fright and "I suppose so, George," I finally said, "but I have given up parties. I work too hard, am too tired."

His eyes were close to mine. I could see the disbeliever in them.

"Found a sweeter, Bob?"

"No, indeed, George. I have told you the truth. I haven't the strength to go to parties after working all day."

He said that, but only a part of it. We had supper; we danced. When George or Harry showed a desire to be affectionate I drew away from them.

"What do you come for if you were going to act like an ice-bag?" he asked, frowning.

"I came to dance and have a nice time," I faltered.

"What the devil do you call a nice time? Not sitting off from me as if I had the smallpox? It isn't my part of a nice time if it is yours. I'd call it a freeze-out!"

Nastily.

Again I saw Matt sitting opposite me, telling me a girl made herself cheap even in the eyes of the men who asked and took liberties with them. George must like cheap girls—he wouldn't be angry if he didn't. He'd respect me because I tried to be decent—so Matt had said.

It was late, there were few people in the restaurant. Suddenly Irene came in and made her way to us. She gave us a scathing look.

"Nice friends I've got!" she sneered. Then she gave Harry a resounding blow across the face. She turned and walked swiftly from the place before any one recovered from their surprise. And I went closely upon her heels, scarcely realizing what I was doing. Only wanting to get away—away from George. Away from the place.

ARE YOU STANDARDIZED?

FROM the demands I get for information upon subjects like what clothes or runners to use on tables, what kind of china to buy, and what pattern is smart in silver, I gather that there are about to be some 25,000 or more American dining rooms "set up" without a single pin point of difference. I hate to think this. It's not worthy of American taste to be afraid to have anything that 25,000 more people aren't having also. It's absurd. It's fantastic.

I like to think that in the same street, the Williams Bore have white damask, a bowl of roses in the center, high old-fashioned silver candlesticks, flowered china and cut glass. That the Robert Painters, next door, have a bare table, lacquered red (with a piece of glass over it to keep it from scratching), black and gold Japanese plates, a flat brass dish full of fruit, smoky glasses, and red and black candlesticks. That Miss Minching, further on, sits down to an old mahogany table with a lace runner and mats, engraved glass, old crown derby china and a single silver gilt candleabra. I hope some of the younger people have pottery on their tables and use the decorative pottery fruit in a pottery basket for the middle; that they eat their soup out of little bowls and introduce a spirit of amusing color and charming inexpressiveness. There's nothing you can't use in an informal household. Digressions off the main topics, flat glass dishes full of flower heads, old vases, all sorts of ornaments can be delightfully displayed. I know one lady who uses a crocheted bedcover on her maple table in summer, and it looks rather smart.

Don't be afraid to be different. All the signs of the times employ this word "different." The "different" shoe, the "different" shop, the "different" atmosphere in the or that motopicture house; but ask anybody out of the smart world to exercise and individuality, and you find they are afraid. To my way of thinking, till Americans stop standardizing their won't be self-respecting or artistic.

Black Satin Gowns Show Uneven Hems

PARIS—A version of the black satin dinner dress popular in Paris is the matronly straight model with an uneven hemline. This gives the dress the appearance of greater length than it really has.

One gown of this type from Cybor has a strip of strap up the right side, and bias folds set in a zigzag pattern.

Beauty and You

DEAR Viola Paris: Will you please give me a remedy for a dry skin? My face is often chapped.

Answer—Perhaps you are not using the right type of preparation for your skin. A scolding oil would be good for cleansing, and soap should be sparingly used. A lotion or a liquid cream should be used to protect the face before exposure. Select a powder that has a slight content of oil. Here is the formula for an oatmeal cream that has softening and refining qualities:

1 teaspoon oatmeal
1 pint water
1 ounce glycerin.

Let the oatmeal boil in the water till clear looking. Strain. Add the glycerin and a dash of rose water. Shake well before applying.

Dear Viola Paris: Will you kindly tell me how I could have a lighter and clearer complexion? Although I haven't many pimples, my face never seems clear or light. I am 18 years old and very dark. I also have a dark line under each of my eyes. Do you think this is from lack of sleep? I go to bed before 11 o'clock every night.

BIG GIRL.

Answer—Certainly your skin should be clear, here is a special reason why it should be light: You know, there are light skins and dark skins. And if you are naturally very dark, why not make the most of that type without wanting to alter it? So long as your skin is clear and unblemished, when the bloom of youth, it should be attractive looking. You ought not to be satisfied with not having "many pimples." Not any! Should be your aim. I am sure that you can reach it if you will care for your health properly, keep the skin clean and follow a sensible diet. The eating of sweets, pastries and heavy fried foods is, in the main, responsible for muddy skins. Lack of sleep is a frequent cause of dark lines underneath the eyes. At your age you ought to be getting to bed around 10 instead of 11 each night. Try to get nine hours of sleep in a very well ventilated room.

Monday—Hats.

What about Dad's own Easter silk hat? Is it worthy to be seen in the company of these other gorgeous and fashionable Easter bonnets? Well, he just has time to get a new one before the shops close. Mitzl and Polly are quite firm about it. And poor Dad thought it "would do."

Monday—Hats.

Aunt Sophia's new Easter bonnet is a turban draped in three shades of satin and with three chrysanthemums on the side. It notes their color and revamps his order of flowers to match the hat. These rehearsals of Easter costumes are really important! Which, by the way, gives him an idea.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES McDONALD

DEAR Miss McDonald: My father, mother and brother are making life miserable for me because I love a man they do not care for. As a result, I do not know what it is to have even one day pass without a scene or at least an argument. First, my mother, then my father siding with her, then my brother—who goes with any one he likes, the wilder the better—but when it comes to me, you would think I was about 15. I am 19, and know how to take care of myself, and I love this man and intend to marry him just as soon as he is of legal age. (His people also object to the match, as he is still in college.) Now, what I want to know is how I can make my family stop centering all their "loving" thought on me and my affairs. I am in college (same college as the man), but I am willing to leave and go to work if necessary to establish a little personal liberty, or to leave home if such a step becomes necessary. I do not live at the college, as our home is here. So every move is under family observation. The father girls go and come as they please—but the fond family never loses sight of me for a moment, and every date is a war. Now the objections. He "drinks." I don't know of any fellow who don't. Certainly my brother gets his share. But that's all right, of course. Second, on one memorable night the boy friend was pinched. For driving past a cop. From then on he was a tramp. And to be avoided. I refused to go to college with him. Now on his side, his folks say I spend his money, keep him out nights, make him drunk, and so on. His mother no longer speaks to me. His father has politely asked me to "let his son alone." I am supposed to be "chasing" him. So my family tells me. So his family tell my family. Well, we are going to be married in fourteen months, when he is 21, and no one can interfere. He can't see any girl but me, and all the rest of the sheikhs look like nincompoops to me. So how can we get the family to lay off for I am just sick of it—especially hearing that he is drunk all the time. (He occasionally gets drunk—I admit. Perhaps one night a week when out.) Any advice?

THE CHASER.

No, no advice. What is the use of there are certain people destined to misfortune, foredoomed to misery, lifelong misery—and all the advice in the world can't forestall their fate. Apparently you are one of these. You will see only your own ends, and pay the price, as thousands before you have paid—as several of my own friends are paying. The boy "drunk" once a week now, before he is 21, will be saturated with alcohol before he is 35; his brain numbed even earlier. And you will view his disintegration, first with dismay, then with despair. But advice will not help. Can't help. So I am not going to give it. But I am going to ask you to sit down quietly by yourself and think. Think what you will pay for what you will get—and ask yourself whether this gin-soaked, weak-willed boy is worth the price. Will you do it?

Love, EVE.
